Efforts to Depress and Raise Quotations Are Alike Unsuccessful.

Note-Quotations reflect closing sales Friday, Feb. 6.

New York. Feb. 5.—Speculation followed a narrow channel during the morning. Efforts to depresa prices at the outset accomplished little, and attempts to bring on an upturn were squally unsuccessful. The hereasing supply at higher prices indicates that opportunities were sought for disposing of stocks, but this tendency was neutralized by the sustained investment demand. The general range held near vesterday's close, although individual stocks broke away from the dead level. New York Central was weak and New Haves strong.

Bonds were irregular.
Buying orders were uncovered when losses of a point or so had been recarded in many stocks. Fractional railies threw the market into duliness again, buyers not being inclined to follow prices up.

The market elosed weak. The pace of the downward movement became faster when some effect was felt of the slump in the oil stocks in the outside market. Each when levels and some of the Standard lesses scores losses of between one and two points.

Possible Cold Wave Crop Damage Leads to Rush; Corn Pit Is Brae,

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 6.—Wheat prices ranged up today in a general rush to buy because of possible crop damage from the cold wave. Mercury at 12 below zero was reported in parts of Nebrsska. Seliers, however, became numerous after quotations had made a medicate buige. Snow falls over much of the winter crop region tended to check the advance. Opening figures were it to it to it to it to he to higher, and additional gains followed.

Reports indigathing that the nouthern hemisphere is unable to meet European requirements helped to prevent any decided reaction. The close was steady, it to he net higher.
